Hardcover; 365 pages.
Introduction to Isaiah's prophecy and theology for Judeo-Christian readers.

For the first time, a Bible scholar fully integrates the Old and New Testaments. Dr. Avraham Gileadi reveals the Book of Isaiah as the key to these two seemingly incompatible books of scripture, taking both to an unprecedented level of understanding.

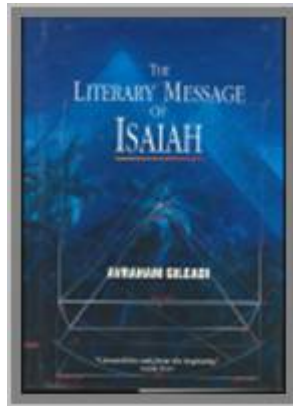

Hitherto unseen literary features change the rules for interpreting the prophecy of Isaiah, showing it to be an allegory of the end of the world. Isaiah's "good news" teaches us how, by living God's law, we are reborn on ever higher levels of a spiritual ladder until we are privileged to pass through heaven's gate.

The End from the Beginning (Hebraeus Press, 1997).
Softcover; 150 pages.

The writings of the ancient prophet Isaiah, encoded by literary devices, reveal a vision of the end of the world and bring to light parts of Hebrew religion that were lost.

The end is foretold by events that occurred in the beginning, the future mirroring the past. Isaiah's literary structures, by making archetypes of Zion and Babylon and their two kings, tell of a dramatic contest between good and evil that will take place at the end of the world.

“This book might well be entitled What You Always Wanted to Know about the Gospel but Were Too Lazy to Find Out. Avraham Gileadi, by analyzing the scriptures, excels at defining things, a practice in which the rest of us are delinquent. Through his in-depth research of the scriptures, he shows us how, as we ‘lengthen our stride,’ we may lengthen our reach to circumscribe all the scriptures into one great whole.” Hugh Nibley, professor emeritus of ancient scripture at Brigham Young University.

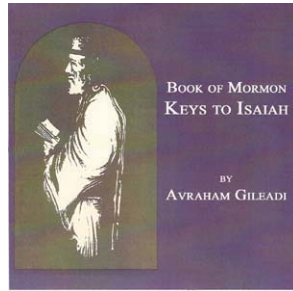

“Avraham Gileadi serves us well as a guide through the old territory of gospel vistas. The genius of Hebrew prophecy is to convey messages through types, figures, metaphors, and allegories. Gileadi is sensitive both spiritually and intellectually in applying ways of looking at the scriptures. In The Last Days he introduces us to hundreds of beautifully interrelated truths.” Ellis T. Rasmussen, dean emeritus of religious instruction at Brigham Young University.
